This notice describes how medical information about you may be used and disclosed and how you can get access to this information.

Your Rights

When it comes to your health information, you have certain rights. This section explains your rights and how to exercise them.

Receive an electronic or paper copy of your medical record
- You can ask to see or receive an electronic or paper copy of your medical record. You may submit your request in writing.
- We will provide a copy or a summary of your health information within 30 days of your request. We may charge a reasonable, cost-based fee.

Ask us to correct or amend your medical record
- You can ask us in writing to correct health information about you that you think is incorrect or incomplete.
- We may say “no” to your request, but we will tell you why in writing.

Request confidential communications
- You can ask us to contact you in a specific way (for example, cell phone) or to send mail to a different address. We will accommodate all reasonable requests.

Ask us to restrict or limit what we use or share
- You can ask us not to use or share certain health information for treatment, payment, or our operations.
- We are not required to agree to your request, and we may say “no” if it would affect your care.
- If you pay for a service or health care item out-of-pocket in full, you can ask us not to share that information for the purpose of payment or our operations with your health insurer.
- We will say “yes” unless a law requires us to share that information.

Notification of a breach
- We will notify you if there is a breach of your health information.

Our Uses and Disclosures

We may, without your written authorization use and disclose your health information for the following purposes:

Help manage the health care treatment you receive
- We may use your health information in the provision and coordination of your health care. For example, your physical therapist may disclose your health information when consulting with your primary care physician regarding your medical condition.

Health care operations
- We may use or disclose your health information to monitor and support the operation of our facilities.

  For example, evaluating the quality of services provided, performing licensing and credentialing activities and other administrative functions.

Payment
- We can use and disclose your health information to bill and receive payment for your healthcare services.

  For example, we may contact your insurer to get paid for services that we delivered to you.

Patient contact
- We may contact you to set up or remind you about future appointments, billing or payment matters.
Our Uses and Disclosures cont’d:

Family members and others involved in your care
- Unless you object, we may disclose relevant health information to a family member, relative or close friend who is involved in your care or in payment of your care.
  For example, we may share information with a family member to help you understand your care, handle your bills, or schedule appointments.

Workers’ compensation
- We may disclose your health information to the extent authorized by and to the extent necessary to comply with laws relating to workers’ compensation or other similar programs established by law. These programs provide benefits for work-related injuries or illnesses.

As required by law
- We may disclose health information about you when required by federal, state or local law.

Health oversight activities
- We may use or disclose health information about you with health oversight agencies for activities authorized by law.
  For example, oversight activities may include audits, investigations and inspections necessary for the government to monitor the health care system.

Marketing communications
- We may use and disclose your health information to contact you with information about treatment services, products or new locations that we believe might be of interest to you.

Research
- We may use your health information for research purposes in certain circumstances with your authorization.

Public health and safety issues
- We may share your health information for certain situations such as, preventing disease, reporting suspected abuse, neglect, or domestic violence, preventing or reducing a serious threat to anyone’s health or safety.

Law enforcement and specialized government functions
- We may disclose your health information for law enforcement purposes as permitted by law. Under certain circumstances, we may disclose health information to units of the government with specialized functions such as the U.S. Military in response to requests as authorized by law.

Respond to lawsuits and legal actions
- We may share health information about you in response to a court or administrative order, or in response to a subpoena or similar legal request.

To business associates
- We may disclose your health information to our “business associates” - individuals or companies that provide services for Athletico.
  For example, a business associate would include the company that administers the billing claims for Athletico. In all cases, we require business associates to appropriately safeguard the privacy of your information.

To Parents and legal guardians of minors
- As permitted by federal and state law, we may disclose health information about minors to their parents or guardians.

Highly confidential information
- Federal and state laws provide additional privacy protection for certain confidential health information. This includes information dealing with mental health, HIV/AIDS, alcohol and drug abuse treatment.

Uses and disclosures pursuant to an authorization
Other uses and disclosures of your protected health information, not described above, will be made only with your written authorization. You may revoke your authorization, in writing, at any time, except that a revocation will not affect any uses or disclosures we have made in reliance on such authorization.

Changes to the terms of this notice
We can change the terms of this Notice and the changes will apply to all information we have about you. The new Notice will be available upon request, posted at each of our facilities and our web site at athletico.com.
